About Us

Western States Alliance (WSA) is a project of the Pollution Prevention Resource Center that helps professionals identify and implement best practices in Fats, Oils, and Greases (FOG) management.

We are a membership organization of FOG professionals from across the United States. Click here to check out our staff bios on pprc.org.

Our vision is to be a comprehensive source of knowledge and assistance to advance technologies and best management practices, conserve resources, and derive the most value from FOG while prohibiting its damaging effects in the wastewater system.

Below the main content area, there are three yellow boxes with white text:

What is FOG?

Fats, oils and grease (FOG) are primarily generated by restaurants and other food service establishments. FOG is a major contributor to municipal wastewater (sewer) collection system blockages.
